Will Hillenbrand,

a free-lance illustrator and art director, lives in Terrace Park, Ohio. Will began drawing when he was a child. He enjoyed escaping into the imaginative and expansive world of picture books. He was the recipient of a 1991 Gold Medal from the Society of Illustrators. Will created the illustration printed in this brochure for a new book Coyote and the Fire Stick authored by Barbara Diamond Goldin and published by Harcourt Brace & Company. Other titles he has illustrated are The Magic Rocket, Asher and the Capmakers, Awfully Short for the Fourth Grade, Back in Action, and I'm the Best!.

J. Patrick Lewis,

a Central Ohio resident has received critical acclaim for his works since his first book, The Tsar and the Amazing Cow, was published in 1988. His children's books include such whimsical characters as a crew of cats aboard a treasure hunting ship in the story-in-rhyme, The Fat Cats at Sea, and an old peddler who sells magic jars in The Moonbow and Mr. B. Bones. His most recent work, Riddle-icious, is a collection of light comic riddles in verse about such everyday objects as the T.V. and a clock.
